marriage through a microscope.

MEMBER OF THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. The Associated Press is exclusively entitled to the use for equilibriation of all news despatch to it or not otherwise credited in this paper and also the local news gubilished herein.

VOLUME 59......NO. 20,840

WHAT'S BEHIND IT?

EARING on the financial policy of transit corporations operating elevated, subway and surface lines in this city, a valued friend of The Evening World submits figures which deserve a prominent place in any discussion of the proposition to raise fares:

The Interborough Rapid Transit Company, which operates the elevated and subway lines, earned 26 per cent on its capital stock in 1917 and 251-2 per cent in 1916. The net earings for 1918 will probably amount to over 30 per cent. In 1917 the total net earnings were $9,102,654. Dividends of 20 per cent. ($7,000,000) were paid on $35,000,000 of stock and $2,102,654 carried to surplus. In 1916 $7,000,000 was paid in dividends and $1,892,014 carried to surplus.

Fully one-third of Interborough stock, it is furthermore pointed out, is water, and these great earnings were made after paying 7 per cent. in dividends ($4,200,000) on $60,000,000 elevated stock, largely water, besides over $7,000,000 of bond interest, of which $1,627,000 was interest on elevated bonds.

The full cost of transporting a passenger in the subway in 1916 was 1 78-100 cents, in 1917 1 89-100 cents, while the average cost on both subway and elevated is less than 2 cents per pas-

In the face of these figures compiled from the Interborough's own annual report, how can Mr. Shonts ask for a two-cent increase in fares on the plea of small profits and high cost of operation?

When it comes to city surface lines, present consequences of past reckless finance are notorious. Thanks to records of riotous overcapitalization, dividends of 18 per cent. are now paid on the stock of lines like the Forty-second Street and Twenty-third Street by the holding company. On the $1,000,000 capital stock of the Eighth Avenue line is paid a rental of $215,000-21 1-2 per cent.!

The full cost of transporting a passenger on some of the surface lines is less than one cent. On the Thirty-fourth Street Railway the cost per passenger is only 3-10 of a cent. This railway company is the most heavily capitalized per mile of any road in the world. The capitalization per mile of road owned exceeds $6,000,000. Yet this company is at present "earning" net over 30 per cent. per annum on its watered capital stock. Were the company honestly capitalized, present earnings would amount to 100 per cent. per annum. With 2 cents extra fare, net earnings on the Thirty-fourth Street Railway would amount to over 300 per cent. per annum on a legitimate capital-

An annual rental of $400,000 per annum is paid on the New York and Harlem Railroad for its franchise rights on Madison and Fourth Avenues. This is the equivalent of 4 per cent. on the $10,000,000 of New York and Harlem Railroad stock outstanding, but is actually over 25 per cent. per annum of the full cost of constructing and equipping this trolley line. Such cost is the only basis for honest capitalization.

It appears to be the current theory of street railway corporations in this city that not only are the consequences of past extravagance and wild finance to be borne year after year by the public, but that if an emergency pinch is felt by the companies the public is to relieve

There is no question of making fat years balance lean ones. When operating costs go down it is the corporation that profits. When they go up it is the public that must make good.

Expressing the prevailing opinion of the Public Service Commission, which denied last week the application of the Queensborogh Gas and Electric Company for permission to raise its rates during the war, Commissioner Kracke noted:

"A public utility company is not entitled immediately and almost exaggerated. Her hair was as yellow her. Her wavy yellow hair, hanging automatically to raise its rates as fast and as far as operating costs as buttercups, her mouth as red as in straight, straggly ends, was go up, any more than the company voluntarily and automatically cherries, her complexion like lilles pasted flat to her scale, showing dark decreases its rates as fast and as far as costs go down."

That established principle as applied to public utility corporations heavy. should not be put into cold storage in war time.

Particularly should it apply to powerful transit corporations which, even as they protest their poverty, are paying 20 per cent. And as the weeks went by her lovell- smudge, resembling a water-color dividends on the watered stock of lines taken over in earlier years on ness became more and more of a portrait on which a hose had been most extravagant terms.

Two cents additional fare for each of the two billion passengers ing room, or in the glare of electric ever beheld. carried yearly on New York's street railways means $40,000,000 more lights, whether in evening dress or each year from the public-four per cent. on a billion dollars.

Is there a scheme on foot for further pyramiding of capitalization on some of the city's transit lines in order to provide a broader cover She was like a vision one sees in a for those 18 and 20 per cent. dividends paid every year to the mysterious owners of millions in ancient and aqueous street railway stock? such an exquisite creature was really

Letters From the People

boys mained or wounded in this gi-gantle war will find employment when To the Editor of The E-ming World:

As a true American and citizen

These men should be able to do light Government agents.

W. F. G. Upholds "Slacker" Round-Up.

inder twenty-one years of age. There is alakers and to term the mode of word many other acts of violence and procedure a "wholesale violation of the right special and the procedure a "wholesale violation of the right special and the procedure a "wholesale violation of the right special and the procedure a "wholesale violation of the right special and the procedure a "wholesale violation of the right special and the procedure a "wholesale violation of the right special and the procedure a "wholesale violation of the right special and the procedure a "wholesale violation of vigar special on the part of solders and the reamy other acts of violence and procedure a "wholesale violation of vigar special on the part of solders and the part of sold Wants Good Jobs for Disabled Soldiers homes" to know some of the horrors prepared a collation and we sub-To the Editor of The Brening World:

I have been wondering how the As an Army Man Sees the "Slacker"

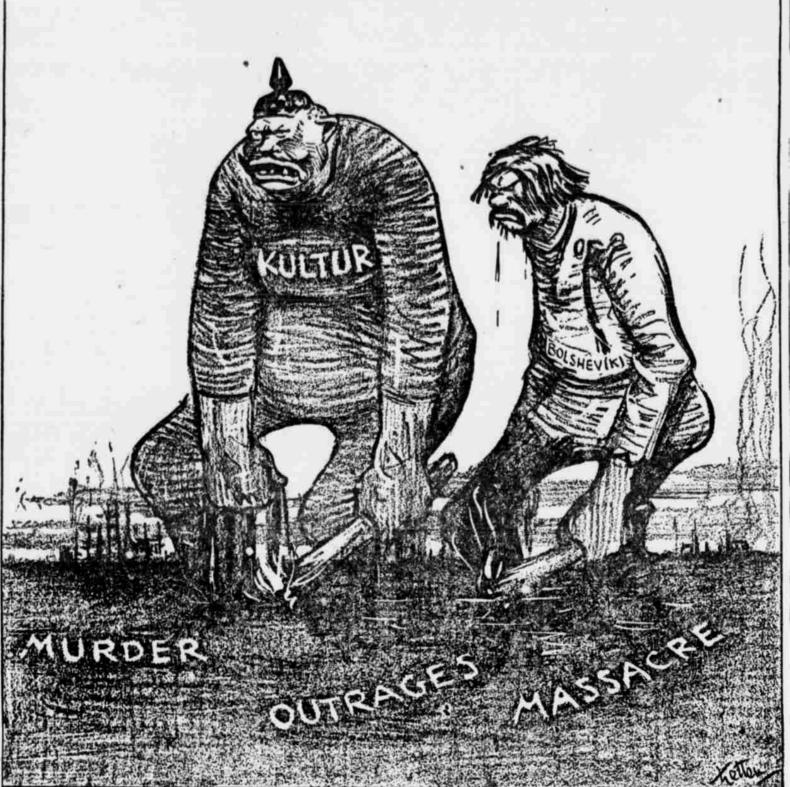

permit me to state a few facts re-I think that the Government should garding this recent outrage thrust retain as many as possible and place them in such positions as they are able to fill in the Government service. "gas house" men camouflaged as than simply discharging them and were forced to keep their mouths from my favorite author, whoever he shut when they tried to protest their innocence. At Prospect Avenue station a soldier slapped a man's face when he protested that his son (who It is ridiculous to make such an was held against a lamp post) was cutery against the round-up of under twenty-one years of age. There slackers and to term the mode of were many other acts of violence and work, such as clerical work, type- At 149th Street men thrust into an by my love, and gazing rapturously work, such as cierical work, type empty store at the butt end of a rifle at her loveliness as she read to me > that we did not notice the sky was becoming overcast. But when a

The Master and Pupil of Part Profiled 1918 By Maurice Ketten

Musings of a Matrimonial Slacker

hair, stop that, too."

A Series of Plain Talks to Parents

By Ray C. Beery, A. B., M. A., President of the Parents' Association

WHEN practically the whole whole world is at war, shall we tell sible.

By William V. Pollard

lips were pale. Her eyelashes were

Then it suddenly occurred to me

our children it is wrong to to fight under some circumstances

and right under others,

selves this ques-

tant qualification. That is, it is wrong and four to-go!"

IX.—All Is Not Nature That Blooms

FELL in love with Blanche be- 1 I had been so busy trying to get cause she was the most beautiful Blanche under cover that I had not beauty was so vivid that any de-scription would seem both crude and looked at her, but hardly recognized "I see you're at and roses, her eyes blue as the hare- at the roots. Her complexion had asbell and her eyelashes dark and sumed a muddy hue. Her luscious using it, and whatever you do to your

After our first meeting at Sylvia short and scant and the bewitching Emmerson's costume dance Blanche violet shadows had disappeared unand I saw each other very often, der her eyes. Her face was a miracle to me. Whatever the setting, turned, causing all the color to runsong. Blanche was always a picture. dream, and when she promised to marry me I could not believe that to be my companion through life. One mild Saturday during that spring when we were happy Blanche Should Children Be Taught to or four neighbor boys in during these wayed uptown to spend the afternoon in the wilds of the north of Manhattan. We walked quite a distance, and then, wanting to rest, we scrambled down the river bank. Blanche had never looked more dazzling than she did that day in her flowered gown and hat all covered with posies. And I was blissfully contented as I lay on the grass unwas at the time.

We were so engrossed in each other

Without the make-up she was almost plain, but she still possessed blue eyes and a snub nose, and I loved her in spite of her lost glory. The next day when I called on "What do you mean?" she queried. "I mean the make-up, Blanche. And I want you to promise to stop

"And be just plain face! Why, I couldn't do that even for love of you. Billy," she exclaimed. "Anyway, I have a reputation to live up to."

After many arguments Blanche not only refused to desist from using coswhether in her softly lighted draw- and she was the sorriest sight I had metics but she broke off our engagement.

"You know too much about me, walking costume, whether concecting that although Blanche applied her admity dish or warbling a love complexion with a master hand she being her be happy now."

Then it suddenly occurred to me Billy," said she, "and we could never be happy now."

Mrs. Jarr paused as though the divergence in the character, capabilities and intentions of her friends and

Making the Most of Our Children

periods and you personally supervise

Just after a couple of boys put on now-both of you-that's right. Strike or "No" without quickly. All right, one for the money, every time.

fight? Thousands the gloves, have one stand at your of parents to-day left hand and one at your right and making an impor- two for the show, three to make ready

The Jarr Family

667 DON'T care what you say." said Mrs. Jarr-Mr. Jarr, by the way, wasn't saying a word-"but at least MY friends are appregirl I had ever laid eyes on. Her noticed what happened to her. When Blanche all her radiant perfection clative, and MY friends do not forget > outside acquaintances, Mrs. Jarr would have said "YOUR friends."

> "What's doing, Ladybug!" asked the best of husbands, with all due

> "Your drinking friends ask you to go motor boating on the dirty old boat, ready to blow up any minute, that is, if it would run at all, and then send you word the boat can't run Sunday on account of the 'saving gasoline' rule-but MY friends"-

Mrs. Jarr paused as though the di-poles. Mr. Jarr gulped at Mrs. Jarr's REAL friends for you! That's the summary of the wholly innocent and kind of acquaintances one can be now postponed Sunday launch trip he proud of. So please don't let me the cashier in his office.

prospect was opening up. Had it drink, that nobody else but her own me believe he ever threw a plate at "Saving Gasoline on Sunday" rule had lor maid told our Gertrude that at home? "Well?" asked Mr. Jarr with due meckness, after musing to this effect. "The Stryvers have invited us to go on a long automobile ride this evening and to take dinner with them at one of the roadhouses," said Mrs. Jarr, proudly, "Mrs. Stryyer says they have a tank full of gasoline they didn't use Sunday, and it would be "The gasoline will be wasted if it isn't wasted-that will be nice," replied Mr. Jarr. Fifteen or twenty minutes with the wicked to waste it."

gloves is enough for one time. Quit the play. See to it that their bouts virtually train the whole group in that the funeral would be on the day evening's pleasure!" self-control. Between bouts, give following, you'd say, 'That would be them your ideas about when it is nice!' You don't see the point of this make such changes in his raiment as right to fight and when it is wrong. at all, or you pretend you do not! Mr. she thought suitable, and they walked Tell them it is right to try to defend and Mrs. Stryver saved this gasoline over to the fine private house of the a weaker person against anyone who by not running their car Sunday, and Stryvers in pleasant anticipation of of parents to-day left hand and one at your right and a weaker person against anyone who have asked them. say, "Now a good rule in boxing is, intends doing harm. The weaker person that's the reason Mr. Stryver is a the enjoyment to come in the comwealthy man. You sneer at him, and pany of persons both wealthy and always keep smiling. Start smiling son may be a woman or an elderly person or a little girl or boy. The yet he has invited YOU as well as refined.

One can't cor- any place above the belt. As soon boys will agree with you when you me." nice," but checked himself in time.

Just after giving the boys your idea about when it is right to fight, it is Johnson asked you to go out on his Laugh and clap your hands—make the ideal time to tell them when palatial yacht, and possibly make you a wooden leg!" Howdy do!" (this to them think they are having a wonder- it is wrong. Tell them that it is pay for the gasoline, Sunday or no the Jarrs.) "By George! This is the ful time—and in about one minute, cowardly to fight for a selfish rea- Sunday, he never asked you if you last time I'll give up a nice evening "What shall I tell my boy about before either of them has time to get son. It is only the coward who holds thought I'd care to go!" Mrs. Jarr like this for that woman's convenstrong wind blew up and great dark fighting? He is twelve years old and angry, say loudly, "Whoa," quickly revenge and wants to whip everybody went on. "Maybe it's just as well. clouds obliterated the blue overhead wants to be scrapping with some one separating them, if necessary. Say, who makes a "snoot" at him or makes I've read in the paper about the gay as a yachting young millionaire us," said Mr. Jarr sweetly, could Mr. Jarr visualize the eightgen. Great fog penetrating power is foot, one-cylinder launch Doughooy claimed for a gearchlight that has

as the scene of gay doings on the been invented in France with a green-

Marriage, like art, requires a special talent. Marriage has been called "love's demi-tasse"the black coffee which a man takes to settle him, after love's intoxication. Marriage is the miracle which transforms a man from whatever he happens to be into something different-a spendthrift into a miser, a rounder into a fireside companion, a lover into a life-critic,

It is now almost as fashionable and quite as

In Germany it is becoming a necessity and an

Marriage is NOT, as has been often declared, "a failure!" Husbands and wives may be failures-but so are a lot of painters and sculptors and authors.

obligation—but in America it is still a luxury.

a rake into a deacon, a butterfly into a grub-and vice versa. The main cause of all the trouble in marriage is that most people rush fato it blindly and then recover their sight, instead of going into it with their eyes wide open and then closing them forever. Before marriage they look for "perfection"; after marriage for imperfections. Before marriage they regard each other through rose-colored glasses; after

Marriage-and War

By Helen Rowland

Copyright, 1318, by The Press Publishing Co. (The New York Brening World.)

"The Main Cause of All the Trouble in Marriage Is That Most People Rush Into It Blindly, and Then Recover Their Sight." ARRIAGE is an ancient custom which has been revived since the war started, along with Colonial candlesticks, economy and the popular as divorce.

Marriage should be a privilege, not a prison, and husbands and wives should be jolliers, not jailers.

In marrying, a wise man tries to get the woman he loves; a wise woman tries to love the man she gets. The two feats are equally difficult. A woman always marries when she finds a man with whom she thinks she can be happy; a man never marries until he finds a woman WITH-OUT whom he CAN'T be happy. He never proposes to a girl in the first moment of inspiration; he waits until the last moment of desperation. He never marries when he loses his heart; he waits until he loses his head. He regards other men's marriages as mere incidents; his own as an accident. And then he calls marriage "a failure,"

At least, he did BEFORE this blessed war began.

Now he is beginning to see that it is his greatest blessing, and that having "somebody who belongs" is the one thing that makes life worth living, wars worth fighting and men worth anything!

The complete success of marriage is unanswerably proved by the fact that widowers and widows, grass or sod, are always in such a hurry to try it again. The man or woman who passes up the wine of love for fear of the headache or the heartache gets about as much joy out of life as the dyspeptic who is afraid to eat his dinner for fear of indigestion.

Marriage is, like the weather, mighty uncertain, and the happiest people are those who are neither looking for storms nor banking on sunshine, but are just willing to go along sensibly and take what comes.

Lots of theorists have offered substitutes for marriage, but as yet nobody, from Henry VIII. to Henry James, has discovered anything which will quite take the place of good, wholesome, plain, old-fashioned monogamy-the kind of marriage "that mother used to make."

Marriage may be so easy that you are suspicious of it. Tying yourself to one woman may seem hard when you think of untying yourself from all the others. Variety may be "the spice of love," but there is nothing quite so monotonous and deadly as continuous variety.

And, after all, life without marriage is like a pipe without a light, an egg without salt, a moon without a sweetheart-nothing but a penance, Obey that impulse-marry the girl! Fighting for an ideal, for your country, for a principle, for humanity is a glorious duty, but fighting for a WOMAN-a woman who loves you, your OWN woman-is an in-

By Roy L. McCardell Copyright, 1918, by The Press Publishing Co. his friends were as wide apart as the BOTH!" continued Mrs. Jarr. "That's (The New York Escaing World.)

> had been invited upon by Johnson, hear you say Mr. Stryver is a war profiteer again! People who live the But he did not gainsay her by re- beautiful home life like the Stryvers do, now that they drink, that nobody else but her own again-and nothing can ever make launch, and that, besides all this, the her; he'd be afraid to-for their page prevented the motor boat's tryout, went around with his face scratched What would have been the use to for days just because he said somecontradict the lady and start some- thing to Mra Stryver about overthing? What man ever wins a battle drawing her bank account - and that's why I say you can't tell me a man who is so considerate of his wife got his money profiteering. Mr. Stryver is very patriotic, and is working on fixing up his income tax

> > "Til bet he groans because he can't figure out how to cheat the Government out of more than two-thirds of his graft," ventured Mr. Jarr, report every night-and, poor man,

he sighs and groans dreadfully while he does it!"

"Now, please don't talk that way!" said Mrs. Jarr. "You haven't any "Is that all you have to say?" cried money to intrust to Mr. Stryver to before the boys get tired, so they Mrs. Jarr. ""That will be nice!" If I invest in the first place; and, in the will like to do it again. In these were to tell you that I was going to second, they are charming people and meetings from time to time, you can expire at daybreak to-morrow and are most kind to ask us to share their

Mrs. Jarr then permitted Mr. Jarr to rectly say "Yes" as I say 'Whoa,' both of you stop tell them they should whip the bully Mr. Jarr was about to say "That's the hall in automobile coat and cap.

"What's the matter with you "But I noticed when that man again?" he called up the stairway. You hobble around like a cow with ience."

> "Oh, shut up!" cried Mrs. Stryver. leaning over the balustrade. "Ain't you got no manners when we've got

"Oh, please don't make company of

SEARCHLIGHT PENERATES FOG.

So he made no ish-yellow glass in front and backed by a reflector that also prevents mois-"Yes, the Stryvers have asked us ture collecting on the glass.